Dear Josh :

I was pleased to hear and see that the "Link"² is already putting out results. Thanks a lot for your letter.

Included you find 1) a report on proline sites in hemoglobins and myoglobins in case you are interested in glancing at it. No request for reading is associated with this unsolicited gift. 2) An essay of my father's on the significance of computers in relation to the problem of creative thinking. 3) A proposal for a life detection experiment by Bob Leif. When he told me about it, I asked him to write it up briefly so that I may communicate it to you, since at this stage you welcome suggestions (good and bad, since the bad ones help defining the area where the good ones may come from).

Jane and I are looking forward very much to seeing you and Esther again soon.

Warmest greetings

Emile
